Overview

Mark practises exclusively in family law and specialises in matters relating to children. He has a busy practice and a reputation for providing excellent client care and being thoroughly prepared. Mark aims to provide realistic and pragmatic advice whilst always being prepared to fight his client's case.

Mark is a care specialist and in recent years has regularly appeared in lengthy and complex proceedings. He has been instructed in cases involving the most serious of allegations including the death of a child, brain injuries and inter-familial sexual abuse. Mark has been led in eight cases in the last two years, including four cases in which he was led by Queen's Counsel.

Mark accepts instructions on behalf of children in private law proceedings relating to child arrangements orders and special guardianship orders. He has particular experience of protracted proceedings involving intractable disputes and serious allegations of sexual and physical abuse. Mark also acts for parents and other family members in adoption cases.

Outside of his practice, Mark is the Secretary of the West Midlands Family Law Bar Association. As such he is responsible for organising training events and functions for the local family Bar.

Within Chambers, Mark is the Equality & Diversity Officer, Diversity Data Officer and Social Secretary.

Children: Public Law

Mark is a public law specialist and is regularly instructed to represent parents, local authorities, children and interveners in care proceedings. He is also experienced in representing vulnerable adults and older children who are competent to provide their own instructions. Mark has experience of cases involving:

- multiple inflicted injuries;
- death of a child;
- serious head injuries, including shaking;

- fabricated or induced illness (FII);
- poisoning;
- sexual abuse;
- female genital mutilation (FGM);
- inter-sibling sexual activity; and
- other forms of significant harm to children.

In the last few years, Mark has been led by Queen's Counsel and senior junior counsel in a number of complex and often lengthy care cases.

Mark also accepts instructions from parents, local authorities, guardians and interveners in secure accommodation proceedings. He has lectured on secure accommodation at seminars hosted by Chambers.

Mark has experience of representing all parties in forced marriage cases, including cases with international elements where the inherent jurisdiction of the High Court has been invoked.

Private Law Children

Mark accepts instructions on behalf of children in private law cases pursuant to FPR r.16.4. He has significant experience in these sorts of cases, especially when the other parties are litigants in person. Mark has concluded several cases of this nature which have been in Court for more than two years.

Mark also accepts instructions from all parties in private law matters relating to adoption.

Notable cases:

Re A [2017-2018]

Mark represented a child in private law proceedings for two years, following two earlier years of implacable hostility and allegations of physical abuse.

Re J [2018]
